[excerpt] Patrolman John Thermidor reported at least 25-30 teenagers in the apartment, as well as people on the stairs leading up to the second floor. He asked to talk to an adult, but there was no response from anyone.

A few minutes later, a man came down from the second floor and identified himself as Jonathan Monsarrat, 41, the resident and host of the party, according to the report. Thermidor told him to inform his guests that the party was over and they have to leave, but Monsarrat allegedly became argumentative and refused to comply. He assured Thermidor that there was no alcohol at the party. According to the report, the officer informed him that he had seen teenagers with beer bottles.[/excerpt]

And let's not forget that somehow, somehow, this man had an "art installation" in both Davis and Harvard sq wherein he answered personal questions about peoples' lives. I can think of no finer influence on the public, truly.

I'm not surprised. Why? I've had the misfortune of knowing him for 10 years before his MANY attempts at reinvention to meet women. (I was friends with his ex-wife #2 before she moved.)

Kind of pathetic, actually.

I'm glad he stopped going to Diesel when he realized that the women who attend were smart, mature, and uninterested in him.

Hi!

I see, so you're friends with my ex-wife... which gives you a remarkably balanced perspective from which to judge me.

Let's face it. You don't know me, but you've chosen to speak out anyway. Doesn't that make you a bit of a fool?

Now will you respond with humility, or with you get angry, like my ex-wife used to do and lash out?
